HEAD'S FURY AT ELECTION 'NIGHTMARE'

HUNDREDS of pupils face massive disruption to exam preparations when their school is used as a polling station for today's county council and European parliamentary elections.

Despite protestations from staff and parents, St Mark's School in Tripton Road will be used by voters in the middle of what headteacher David Brunwin described as the busiest week in the school's calendar.

With 220 pupils due to sit exams today and a further 400 candidates taking tests tomorrow (Friday), Mr Brunwin said he and staff faced a "logistical nightmare" in having the extra burden of hundreds of voters flooding into the school grounds.

"I'm afraid this is going to be less about education and more about crowd control," he said.

"I have a responsibility to look after my students and I obviously cannot allow members of the public to wander around the school, and with voters and pupils coming and going all day it will be a logistical nightmare."

Santa's little helper is new star of Pets' Corner

A NEW arrival at Pets' Corner in Harlow Town Park is creating quite a stir.

For the latest attraction at the children's zoo is a baby reindeer, the first to be born in Harlow.

The calf was successfully delivered by mum Belle shortly after 6am on Thursday and has been under the watchful eye of staff ever since.

The new arrival, which has yet to be named, will live with her mother and fellow reindeer Holly at the popular attraction. The calf's father lives at Broxbourne's Paradise Wildlife Park.

Pupils help to give speeding drivers a lesson in road safety

CHILDREN helped bolster Harlow's thin blue line when they carried out speed checks on cars using the road outside their school.

The group of pupils from St James Primary, in Paringdon Road, were monitoring drivers' speeds on Tuesday as part of a scheme to teach both drivers and children about road safety.

The exercise followed on from two weeks of lessons in which the pupils learned about dangers on the road.

Motorists caught flouting the 30mph limit were given the option of receiving penalty points and a fine or face a grilling from the youngsters about the dangers of speeding.

Nine speeders were caught in just one hour. All chose to speak to the youngsters and answer their questions including how they would feel if they injured a person while speeding.

PC Duncan Stapleton, who was in charge of the operation, said: "The drivers exceeding the limit by an excessive amount found themselves facing the normal charges, but those exceeding to a lesser extent were able to choose between the fine and the questions from the children."

"The drivers tended to choose questions from the children as they believed it was an easy way out but it wasn't."

Firm cleared of blame for school coach blaze

A HARLOW coach firm has been cleared of blame over a fire which ripped through a coach while it was being used to carry pupils to school.

Inspectors for the Vehicle Operating Standards Agency concluded the blaze on the SM Coaches vehicle was "not caused by any lack of maintenance on behalf of the bus company".

Some 48 children and the driver escaped uninjured when the bus taking them to the school in Bishop's Stortford caught fire as it travelled along the A414 Stanstead Abbots bypass on March 16.

Although the inspectors could not pinpoint the exact cause of the fire they said the company was not at fault.

Hertfordshire County Council decided to remove SM Coaches, of Burnt Mill, from the route while it awaited the results of the VOSA inquiry. The firm will now be reinstated on the journey from Monday.

Widow's distress at vile vandalism

AN elderly widow has endured weeks of distress after claiming police have done little to find the culprit responsible for throwing human excrement into her garden.

Betty Hicks (77) has been left shaken and upset by the vile attacks which have plagued her at her Foldcroft home for the past two months.

She reported what was happening to police after the third incident. Officers who were sent to her home to investigate concluded the faeces was of human origin.

After a further four incidents she was sent a diary in which to record further attacks.

But she now feels she has nowhere else to turn because police have so far refused to install cameras to catch the culprit in action.

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassooni@hertsexnews.co.uk

"I just don't know what to do," a tearful Ms Hicks told the Star. "I am an elderly woman living on my own and have never done anything to upset anybody."

"I would rather cross the street than have an argument but I feel I could be being helped more by the police. I am the victim and they don't seem to be doing anything."

Ms Hicks said the incidents have occurred at roughly weekly intervals for the past seven weeks and involve a large amount of faeces.

On some occasions it has landed on garden ornaments and her patio which she has then had to clean herself.

"It is a filthy stink," she said. "I feel like selling up and going because I am so terribly upset about it."

"I have been here for 45 years and never had any trouble but it seems I can't get much help with stopping this."

"I would have thought the police would take a sample for testing or at least put cameras up. How else are they going to catch who is responsible? I could write a diary from now until Christmas but that isn't going to get me anywhere."

A police spokeswoman said a community support officer had visited Ms Hicks several times regarding the incidents and house-to-house inquiries had been carried out.

She added that officers would be keeping a close eye on the neighbourhood in an attempt to catch the person responsible. She also appealed for anyone with information about the incidents to contact Harlow police on 0300 333 4444.

Guard assaulted by cash snatch raiders

A SECURITY guard was left shaken after he was assaulted by robbers.

The 42-year-old was punched to the ground while walking near the Blockbuster Video shop in Staple Tye, Harlow, on Friday morning.

Police said he was approached from behind by one of the robbers who tried to grab the cash box.

After a struggle the second robber punched him in the head, causing him to fall to the ground.

During the scuffle the guard let go of the box which contained a four-figure sum.

The two men, described as black and in their late teens or early 20s, ran away and were seen to get into a silver

Firefighters arrived at about 5pm to find the former Baggage World store next to Adams' had

Pedal pals in training for a one-day trek

By LOUISE SASSOON

News Editor

sassoona@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO fearless fundraisers are taking their charity-driven efforts to the extreme by attempting to cycle 125 miles in a single day.

Graham Ellis (59), of Puffers Green, Harlow, and friend Bruce Kelly (68) will be taking to the saddle to peddle their way across Scotland from the most north-westerly point of the UK in Cape Wrath to John O'Groats.

The pair hope to start and finish their adventure in the same day to raise £7,500 for the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association. The money will cover the cost of buying and training a dog.

For chartered surveyor Mr Ellis, the challenge is the 30th he has undertaken in aid of worthy causes. Last year he cycled across an Indian sub-continent in eight days to raise money for Macmillan Cancer Support. Before that he pedalled 250 miles over six days following the course of the River Nile in Egypt for the British Heart Foundation and he has also completed a 10-day trek across Vietnam in aid of the CLIC Sargent children's cancer charity.

"I cycled from Cape Wrath to Dover about three years ago and raised £15,000 for Cancer Research UK so this seemed like a good challenge to do," said Mr Ellis.

"Bruce lost an eye to cancer and I ran the London Marathon for Guide

Dogs for the Blind in 1981 and it seemed a very worthwhile charity so I decided to support them again."

The pair intend to set off at 5.30pm on June 23 and hope to complete the route in 12-14 hours.

"We will be taking regular comfort breaks but other than that we will not stop until we get to John O'Groats," said Mr Ellis. "It is going to be tough to cover 125 miles in one day when you think about other challenges I have done where the maximum cycled is about 80 miles, but we have been training on the bikes every weekend and we are upping the distance so we can make it to the end."

To sponsor the pair, donate to the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association or to buy a ticket to guess how long it will take them to complete the challenge and how many miles they will cover, call (01279) 635667.

Legal team to leg it for hospice cash

LEGAL eagles will be donning their hiking boots to raise cash for St Clare Hospice.

About 30 workers and partners from the Harlow and Loughton branches of law firm Attwater & Liell will tackle a 28-mile walk later this month to raise at least £4,000 for the hospice.

Their trek will start at Limehouse Basin and proceed along the River Lea to Ware.

Joyti Henchie, a partner in the firm, said: "I'm sure that by the end we'll be rubbing our feet and we'll certainly be aching the next day, but what we're doing is literally a walk in the park in comparison with the work St Clare Hospice does.

"We are very lucky to have the benefit of such a wonderful charity on our doorstep."

Praise for nurses

NURSES across the area have been given a shot of confidence after their work was celebrated at a special event at St Margaret's Hospital in Epping. NHS West Essex chief executive Aidan Thomas told the audience: "You as nurses, as qualified and caring professionals, are the people who spearhead care and provide such a great service."

The day was organised by local nurses in conjunction with the Royal College of Nursing with the support of NHS West Essex.

Club anniversary

HARLOW Flower Club will be cutting a cake at its next meeting to celebrate its 45th anniversary. The club meets at the United Christian Fellowship Church in Purford Green, Harlow.

Fun day for a worthy cause

FUNDRAISERS were over the moon after raising £700 at a charity bash.

Visitors flocked to Harlow Town Park to join in a day of activities including face painting and an inflatable assault course.

The money raised will go to the A.B.C Foundation which helps abused babies and children. It was set up by Harlow resident Stacey Francis and her mum following the death of Baby P.

Stacey said: "It was a good day and we had a good turnout considering the weather.

"We would like to thank Nandos, Pizza Hut and Esporta for their generous raffle donations and everybody who turned up to support the event."

MP 'frustrated' by delay on expenses

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassoona@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE pressure on Harlow MP Bill Rammell to publish details of his expenses continued to mount this week after hundreds of people demanded he open himself up to public scrutiny.

With MPs facing a public backlash over the expenses scandal which has rocked Parliament, several have already made public the money they have claimed by publishing receipts online.

But Mr Rammell has yet to follow their lead, despite being urged to do so by his political rivals and more than 200 Star readers who agreed with our website poll which asked whether his receipts should be made available to view online.

This week he repeated his intention to do so but said he was still waiting for them to be checked internally.

In a written statement he said: "As I have said before I am frustrated that this process is taking so long.

"However, all MPs have a legal duty to undertake considerable work in protecting the private details of staff and this involves extensive work going back through four years worth of personal and office receipts, and invoices.

"The Parliamentary authorities have advised MPs to wait until all legal checks

THIS week the Star went out on to the streets of Harlow to ask whether they thought Mr Rammell should publish details of his expenses claims without further delay. Here are some of the responses:

Susan Johnson (39), of The Dashes: "Bill has been backed into a corner and now his been put into a bad light because of other MPs' expense claims. He is now forced to release them really."

Archie McDonald (44): "If he has nothing to hide then why is he not releasing them? He will lose the trust of the community soon if he is not careful."

Sherri Mans (29), of Old Harlow: "Whether Bill Rammell releases his expenses or not is not really the issue; it's whether or not he has done something wrong. It will come to light soon enough."

have been undertaken before publishing their receipts online and I am complying with this. I have nothing to hide and will be fully accounting for my allowances when the authorities have finalised their work."

Back in March the Star reported that Mr Rammell, Minister of State in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, had claimed a total of £114,220 between 2001 and 2008 to pay for furniture, food, energy bills, maintenance and mortgage costs on a second home in London, despite living less than 30 miles from Westminster.

He said he has since stopped claiming the

FLASHBACK: Harlow Star, May 21

Brian Tomkins (54), of Red Lion Lane: "Yes he should certainly release details of expenses now. There is no reason for him not to"

Mary Williams, of Redburn Close: "Hundreds of thousands of us have to pay for things yet it seems he has the right to hide it."

Additional Costs Allowance, even though he is entitled to do so.

The results of the poll on the Star website showed 90 per cent of those taking part agreed he should publish his receipts early so his constituents could find out exactly how he had spent the money claimed.

Conservative rival Robert Halfon said Mr Rammell's stance was not acceptable.

"As I have said before, I'm not suggesting he has done anything wrong but he should publish his expenses online and should have done so a long time ago. All shadow ministers have done it so why can't he?"

Head angry at elections 'nightmare'

As part of a contingency plan put in place by the school to cope, pupils in Years 7, 8 and 9 will also have to finish their school day early – meaning children who have already missed two days of schooling because of heavy snowfall in February will lose further valuable time in class.

At previous elections Harlow Council, which is responsible for setting up polling stations across the district, has provided portable cabins to minimise disruption to the school day.

But this year it claims it cannot afford to provide external facilities. A spokesman said it was also concerned wheelchair users would struggle to access a portable cabin.

"The council has limited funds made available to it by the Government for these elections and the funds won't cover the use of a cabin," he said.

"We have no control over when elections are called and we appreciate that this is not a good time for the school – however it is not within our power to change this."

Burglars steal keys and drive off in car

POLICE are reminding householders to lock all doors and windows at night following a burglary in Jerounds, Harlow. Thieves entered the property through a rear door and helped themselves to a laptop computer, a purse and various bank cards.

They also took the keys to the occupant's Ford Focus car in which they then made their escape.

Parents help out with costumes and karts

PETERSWOOD INFANT: Parents had the opportunity to take a trip back in time and reminisce about their own school days when they were invited to help their children make superhero costumes and go karts. Year 2 pupils at the Paringdon Road school constructed the four-wheeled karts and then tested them out in the school grounds while those in the foundation year put their creative skills to good use in their costume project. The evening workshop was designed to get children and parents working and learning together. A school spokeswoman said: "They all had a thoroughly wonderful time." (s)

Growing veg for a taste of the good life

PARINGDON JUNIOR: Green-fingered pupils have been mucking in to help create new vegetable gardens within the school as part of a project to learn where food comes from.

With help from the Berecroft Gardening Club, the youngsters have planted and watered their plants and are looking forward to eating the produce when it is ready.

A school spokeswoman said: "The children really enjoy looking after the vegetables. They even want to water them when it's pouring down with rain!"

Pictured in one of the vegetable patches are Beau Jarvis, Randy Agyeman, Saikouba Nije, Scott Beaumont, Sophie Parkinson, Sophie Turvill and Anna Parkinson.

The project was possible thanks to outside funding which also paid for a reading area.

Last chance to sign up for the Midnight Walk

IT'S now or never if you want to take part in this year's Midnight Walk in aid of St Clare Hospice.

There are just EIGHT DAYS left to register so you'll need to be quick to get your name in.

More than 1,200 have already signed up for the 10km walk along the streets and cycle paths of Harlow. The walk takes place on Saturday, June 20 but registration closes next Friday (June 12).

The latest team to enter are the ladies of the Gloria M Skin Care Centre in Old Harlow. Pictured are owner Gloria McCartney with Claire Didic, Julie Garaty, Lesley Bennett, Heather Worth and Sophie Tweddell.

"We really wanted to help with fundraising for St Clare Hospice to support those they are caring for now," said Gloria. "But also you never know when we might need the hospice."

"St Clare is a charity and therefore relies on fundraising. One of our ladies did the Midnight Walk last year and we thought this year it would be nice to have a work team, so we can have fun raising the money and a fun night out."

"We've got a great team here. We've already raised £100 though donations; we have very loyal customers and it's so nice of them to help us raise money for the hospice. In the last week before the walk we will donate all our tips towards the total."

This week hospice events organiser Tracy Meale said: "It's getting close now. We have around 1,200 local ladies signed up and we're quickly approaching 1,500 which would be fantastic, but there is only one week and one day to sign up!"

"Our featured team this week are busy raising what they can towards the event total of £120,000 and we are so grateful to them. Contributing their tips is a lovely way to raise money and what a lovely thing to do."

"It's the sponsorship that walkers are raising at the moment – however small or large – that will help us reach our total and support the work of St Clare, providing 24-hour care to local people, who have life limiting illnesses."

If you want to find out more about the Midnight Walk, full details are on www.stclare-hospice.co.uk/midnightwalk. To register to take part, choose one of the options in the panel below and follow the entry instructions. But don't delay or you will miss out on a great night.

Sarah's loving her island life

By LIZ HARRIS

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW woman is living her dream after becoming the first female to be employed as caretaker of a tiny island so remote it has no inhabitants.

Sarah Harris (22), of East Park, has been employed as ornithological warden on the Calf of Man, a small island off the south west tip of the Isle of Man.

She will stay on the island with a fellow warden until November, logging wildlife, ringing birds with leg tags, surveying colonies and looking after visitors, the environment and an observatory.

"Being the first female warden doesn't bother me," she told the Star this week. "I know there have been female assistant wardens so I guess the pressure is off a bit, but I had better do a good job!"

The tiny island measures one mile wide and one-and-a-half miles long and can only be accessed by boat depending on the weather conditions.

Sarah and her colleague are living in a farmhouse with a limited water and electricity supply. They have no television or internet and, with all their food and gas delivered by sea, they have to keep fingers crossed the weather is good.

Sarah, who is a keen bird ringer, managed to get the role through contacts at the Rye Meads ringing group, a volunteer organisation she has been involved with for nine years.

Her degree in countryside conservation, which she studied at Aberystwyth University, has also played a big part in helping her cope with the job.

"Harlow is very different from here," she said. "I miss my family and friends but I definitely enjoy the tranquillity of the Calf of Man."

Hospice helpers praised

HOSPICE volunteers were thanked for their efforts on Tuesday.

The team of unpaid helpers were treated to a barbecue at St Clare Hospice in Hastingwood during National Volunteers Week.

They were praised for their contribution in all aspects of the hospice, including patient care, catering, fundraising, maintenance, finance, gardening and working in the hospice's charity shops.

Chief executive Richard

Cowie said: "Our patients enjoy seeing different faces each day and often patients may know volunteers. This can bring comfort at what can be a difficult time for them."

"I would like to thank each and every volunteer for all they bring to St Clare."

Chaotic parking every afternoon

SIR, So traffic wardens are going to get tough with bad parking around Harlow are they? (Star, May 21). Well they will not need a tape measure to see the examples I witness every day.

I am talking about the chaos every afternoon along Traceys Road with cars parked along the zig-zag approach to the zebra crossing (and on the actual crossing itself), completely blocking the pavements. And this is just to pick their children up from the primary school.

I contacted Harlow Council and was told it was a police matter so I contacted the police and guess what! They said it is a council problem.

The council did then admit it was their responsibility but amazingly told me that if they sent wardens to the area and started handing out tickets, the parents would be back the next day doing the same thing. I am still trying to work that one out.

Christopher Simons
address supplied - Editor

SIR, In response to your recent article about bad parking, I live around the corner from a school and nearly every day someone parks across my drive. When I ask them to move they are often rude and sometimes quite abusive.

Apart from the inconvenience of parking across my drive, it is extremely dangerous as the children who walk home from school have to cross the road behind the vehicles parked there.

I will be delighted if they receive £70 fines, if only to protect the children who walk to school. I have written to the police about this but my letter was not even acknowledged.

The tears I shed for my little angel

SIR, Many grandparents are being denied contact with their grandchildren through no fault of their own and are powerless to do anything to change the situation.

When marriages end in divorce and families are divided, grandparents can often find themselves facing enforced estrangement from their grandchildren. Whatever the reason that causes the separation, the fact is that grandparents do not, at this time, have any legal right of contact and this causes great pain and heartache.

I have been denied all contact with my only grandchild for the past year. My granddaughter is nearly two years old and my husband and I have been prevented from seeing her by my son and daughter-in-law.

We grew to love her with all our hearts and I used to call her my little angel. I have cried many tears for not being able to show her the love we have for her and for her being denied the right of having the love and support of her grandparents as she grows up.

My son and daughter-in-law are Jehovah's Witnesses and although I am also a member, I no longer attend their meetings. This is my only 'crime' and my punishment is to be shut out of their lives.

I have always loved my son dearly and always will, but I have to be able to make my own decisions with regard to religious matters. Consequently, even though my husband and I have only ever shown them love and kindness we have been ostracised from their lives and from the life of my granddaughter. We are not allowed to send gifts to her and my son has returned the ones that we had previously given.

We hear much about human rights nowadays, the basic rights and freedoms to which all humans are entitled. Article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights states: "Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion; this right includes freedom to change his religious belief" while Article 20 says: "No one may be compelled to belong to an association."

Unfortunately, the organisation of Jehovah's Witnesses does not respect these basic human liberties. They compel their members to stay within their association by imposing a nearly intolerable cost for resigning their membership. The penalty for leaving is enforced shunning by family members and former friends.

There is increasing hope that in the near future grandparents will be given the right to have contact with their grandchildren as the call for the law to be changed is gaining widespread political support and the voices are getting louder. Until that time arrives I have a special place in my heart just for my little angel.
Name and address supplied - Editor

Plumtree people don't just park willy nilly; if there isn't a space they just park with all four wheels on the pavement, completely blocking access to anyone.

Not content with that, these vehicles are left in that position for some days. When a suitable parking space appears in the road, no effort is made to move them off the path and back on to the road. It always appears to be the twenty- to thirtysomethings who do this. They don't have regard for anyone else except themselves.

I have contacted the police on numerous occasions but nothing gets done. I always thought it was illegal to park on the footpath but perhaps this small piece of illegality is of no importance as to warrant police attention.

Now wardens have new powers to clamp down on this anti social behaviour things should be OK, shouldn't they?

Honourable? I don't think so

SIR, As someone deeply involved in politics, I have been following every piece of news about the expenses scandal and, like most Harlow constituency voters, find it deeply depressing.

As a Parliamentary candidate I get no wages or expenses from the taxpayer or the Conservative Party. I have been amazed to learn of some of the things MPs from all parties have been claiming for - a duck island, fake mortgages, interior designers, tax accountants etc. It is almost unbelievable.

There is something deeply rotten at Westminster that so many MPs thought they could get away with these things for so long. Moreover, all of this has happened at a time when people are suffering more than ever because of the broken economy.

I have to admit that over the past three weeks my romanticism about Parliament and MPs has taken a severe knock. Can MPs who have milked and abused their expenses really be called honourable members? Do we have a Parliament of which we can be proud, which once was the envy of the world? I think not. I almost dread watching the news and hearing about the latest scandal.

If there is some good to come out of all this, it certainly won't be achieved just by tightening up the system of expenses and allowances, although of course this needs to happen. Much deeper reform is needed to return Parliament back to the people and to re-engage voters with politics.

For a start there should be many more free votes for MPs so they can vote according to their conscience and what is best for their constituency rather than do what they are told by the party. MPs should not be demonised if they rebel against their party policies. MPs who have been proven to be corrupt, or have abused Parliament, should be sanctioned by the Speaker. Not only should they lose their salaries but the Speaker should be able to give permission for voters in the constituency to collect signatures for an instant by-election.

Parliament needs to be much stronger. The reason why our economy is broken and our public services in decay is because Gordon Brown and Tony Blair had such a big majority in the Commons they were able to do whatever they wanted without significant checks and balances. We now live in a country of high debt, high unemployment and high taxes, with huge problems affecting our hospitals, policing, schools and transport system. MPs need to have more power to challenge Government.

We should attempt to re-engage voters in politics by making the House of Lords democratic and 50 per cent of the Lords chamber handed over to the people. Every voter would be given a PIN number in which they could vote on legislation currently before the Lords, with the voting and information being supplied on the Internet. In order not to undermine the legitimacy of the House of Commons, the Lords would still only have amending and delaying power, with the final decision being taken by the Commons.

We should scrap all these ridiculous regional quangos and unelected assemblies, many of which are a huge waste of taxpayers' money. All the powers they have should be pushed down to local council level. Local people should have more chances to organise referenda on key issues of the day.

We should stop handing over powers to Brussels. Parliament should have control over its laws and not keep ceding its powers to the European Union, which is far too unaccountable, unwieldy, and too often acts against the best interests of Britain.

The expenses scandal gives politicians a real chance to reform Parliament, increase voter participation and elect MPs who are truly honourable men and women.

It's just dandy

SIR, The person who was complaining about dandelions infesting the grass verges in Church Langley (Star, April 23) needs to get a life. If that is all they have to complain about they have my sympathy. There is nothing wrong in seeing a field, or grass verge, of dandelions or, for that matter, daisies. Have a cup of tea and chill out.

R. D. Hatch
Coppice Hatch

SIR, Both Mr Poulter and Mrs Hiller (Letters, April 23/May 21) should be more concerned about the erosion of our front garden spaces and grass verges with flower beds now untended.

The parked car is rapidly dominating our diminishing garden space which is being replaced by paved and Tarmac parking plots. I can visualise a future Old Harlow as one vast car park.

In a few years time, if this is allowed to continue, the dandelion will be a rare feature, as with many other wild flowers now blooming along grass verges but doomed to disappear along with the hedgerows.

Derek McLinden

Give cash back

SIR, I write with reference to your article on council house rent increases (Star, May 14)

I am sure that tenants welcome the proposal to half rent increases given the current economic situation. I wonder how those reliant on housing benefit would afford greater housing costs that may not be covered by benefit payments, meaning a rent increase could potentially decrease their disposable income and push them more into poverty.

How many of your readers are aware of what the national and local organisation Defend Council Housing calls daylight robbery? This is where central government collects rent money from local councils, including Harlow, but only gives a small proportion back to councils to spend on housing.

It is estimated councils lose £1.7bn per year through this and Harlow Council is set to lose £12m this year. This is money that could have been spent on maintaining and building new council properties.

The latter would help to kick-start the economy and provide affordable and accountable accommodation at a time when the level of repossessions is rapidly increasing and waiting lists for council accommodation increases.

So, yes, we welcome the proposal but as well as giving us a smaller increase could we please have our money back from central government to invest in more council housing.

As you were

SIR I am pleased to inform you that the ridiculous situation with the road markings at the Potter Street roundabout has been resolved. They have been altered back to the way they were before.

This, I feel, is in no small way due to the publicity given to this subject by the Star. Thank you.

Police warning to car owners

DRIVERS are being warned after a spate of thefts from cars in which hundreds of pounds worth of property has been stolen.

Thieves have been smashing passenger windows on vehicles parked in various areas around Harlow, making off with cash, mobile telephones, satellite navigation systems and laptops.

PC Lisle Douglas, of Harlow police, said said: "We would remind people not to leave cash or any valuable items on display in vehicles, even when they are leaving it for a short period of time."

Among the cars broken into were a Peugeot 206 and Peugeot 205, both parked in Greenhills, and a Renault Clio parked in Hornbeams.

Work starts on thinning wood

THE first stage in a five-year programme to manage Latton Wood is due to get under way next week.

Following discussions with the Forestry Commission, Harlow Council has been granted a felling license to thin selected areas of the wood to improve conditions for natural regeneration of native deciduous trees such as oak and ash, and reduce the amount of conifers dominating the area. Signs will be placed around the wood informing the public of the felling operation.

A council spokesman said: "We apologise for any inconvenience caused to residents during these works."

Snubbed Lib-Dems in blast at 'petty' Tories

By CHRIS MOSS

moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

LIBERAL Democrat councillors have accused the town's Conservative-led administration of breaking with tradition by refusing to appoint their party's candidate as vice-chairman of Harlow Council.

The Liberal Democrat group had expected Linda Pailing to take over the post from Labour's Edna Stevens at Thursday's full council meeting in accordance with a rotational system adopted by the authority in 2002.

But in an unexpected U-turn before the start of the meeting, the Tories took a last-minute decision to stop rotating the role between parties and instead handed the post to Conservative councillor Sue Livings.

The move incensed Liberal Democrat councillors, some of whom had already been criticised by outgoing chairman Tony Hall during his review of his year in office.

Liberal Democrat group leader Chris Millington said afterwards: "I was very disappointed to learn that the Tories were planning to renege on the agreement made between all parties to rotate the chairmanship every year."

"Coupled with Tony Hall's grossly unfair attacks on several of our members, it would seem they're willing to try anything that might undermine the Liberal Democrats now we have strengthened our position as the main opposition party."

SUE LIVINGS

But council leader Andrew Johnson insisted there was never a tradition to break as the rotational system had only been put in place seven years ago when no single party had overall control of the authority.

"When Labour had control of the council before that date there would always be a Labour chairman and vice-chairman," he explained.

"I think it's incredibly ironic for the Liberal Democrats to complain about not holding a post certain members of their party have shown contempt for over the past year by turning up late for meetings or refusing to stand as a show of respect."

CHILDREN got wrapped up in history as they delved into the secrets of ancient Egypt at Harlow Library on Sunday.

Dozens of youngsters enjoyed a fun-filled afternoon during which they could have their picture taken next to Egyptian royalty, examine objects from the land of the pharaohs and explore the mysteries of mummies and hieroglyphics.

They also got the chance to recreate an Egyptian headdress and enjoy a code quiz.

The exhibition has been visiting libraries throughout the county during half term week.

Library supervisor Nicolas Ringrose said: "It was great fun and a great success. Lots of people visited."

Murder charge man remanded

A MAN accused of stabbing a 62-year-old disabled woman to death in her car outside her Harlow flat has appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court.

Scott Riley (26), of Parsonage Leys, Harlow, is charged with the murder of Jennifer Macaree.

No pleas were entered and Riley, whose address was also given as of Wicklow Avenue, Chelmsford, was remanded in custody for a plea and case management hearing which was set for August 3.

Ms Macaree died in hospital of multiple stab wounds after being attacked inside her Vauxhall Corsa car at Hadley Grange, Harlow, on February 28.

Pair broke windows days before flat fire

ONE of two teenagers accused of starting a fire in a flat which claimed the life of a young woman told police they had smashed the windows of the property a few days earlier as an act of revenge.

A jury at Chelmsford Crown Court was read a statement by Carl Manton in which he said he was surprised his co-accused had not admitted the damage "because it was his idea".

Referring to Darren Satchwell – who occupied the flat at Sherwood House in Bush Fair, Harlow – Manton said: "I wanted to get him back for chasing me. I smashed the glass and my friend did the same. A few days later there was the fire in the flat."

Earlier, a woman walking in the area a few hours before the blaze in May 2005 said she heard "raised voices" and saw a waterlogged toilet roll thrown from the flat which hit a man who was passing.

Susan Dean told the court: "I could hear people's raised voices but couldn't understand what was being said. As I got nearer to the block I saw something being thrown from the window – it was a waterlogged pink toilet roll – and it struck the shoulder of a bald headed man."

Kerry Youngs (24), who lived with her boyfriend Kevin Chapple in the flat above, died from smoke inhalation. Mr Chapple suffered permanent brain damage.

Manton (18), of Longbanks, Harlow, and a 17-year-old youth, who cannot be named for legal reasons, deny charges of murder, manslaughter and arson with intent to endanger life and being reckless as to whether life was endangered.

A 40-year-old woman and a 37-year-old man deny committing acts tending or intending to pervert the course of justice by making a false statement about one of the boy's whereabouts and a 15-year-old girl denies making a false statement.

This week the jury heard evidence from a witness who it was claimed had confessed to his father that he started the fire.

Ambrose Jones admitted he had been at Sherwood House, on the day of the blaze and had been questioned by police eight times.

Barrister Patricia Lynch asked him about a conversation he was alleged to have had with his father in a pub in which he was claimed to have said: "I've done something terribly wrong. I've set fire to the flats."

However, when that was put to him by police he had replied "no comment" and in court he told the jury: "I didn't have a conversation with my dad."

Another witness, Jack Chambers (20), said he initially identified the 17-year-old defendant as having been at the scene and had been "confident" it was him. However, he said that when he saw CCTV footage he was no longer 100 per cent sure it was the accused.

The trial continues.

Staff celebrate stationary company's silver service

AT a time when all the talk is about recession, one Harlow business has proved it has staying power by celebrating 25 years of trading.

Orchard Stationary, which is based at the Harlow Business Park in Pinnacles, has been supplying customers both locally and nationally since 1984.

Managing director Peter Doyle said: "The key to our success is responding to what our customers want to buy and listening to their needs. We then act upon them.

"Sometimes other companies have been unable to pay us but we just had to work hard to find new customers. I am confident that we can ride out the recession and come out of it just as strong."

To celebrate its silver anniversary, the company is running promotions offering 25 per cent discount to customers.

Jail for conman who pocketed deposits as part of property scam

A CONVICTED fraudster who took part in a property scam in Old Harlow has been handed a 12-month jail sentence after pocketing almost £1,500 in deposits on a flat he never intended to let.

Jason Knox (39), who is already serving a seven-year sentence for grievous bodily harm, conned £1,390 out of would-be tenants replying to an advertisement he and another man had placed for a two-bedroom flat for rent in St Edmund's Way.

Stephen Rose, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, said Knox and his co-defendant – who is yet to stand trial – took a number of deposits dishonestly as they had no intention of letting the property.

Although they gave receipts signed with false names, they were eventually traced after police received a number of complaints from victims of the scam trying to get their money back.

Knox, of Spalding, had already pleaded guilty to three offences of false representation at Harlow Magistrates Court in May of last year before his case was committed to the crown court for sentence.

The court was told Knox had a string of previous convictions for offences involving theft, fraud, firearms and violence. However, his barrister, Howard Jones, said he had not served longer than 12 months in prison prior to his current term for assault.

Passing sentence on Friday, Recorder Michael Ashe QC imposed four months jail sentences for each of the three fraud charges to run concurrently with each other and with his seven-year term for GBH.

There will be a separate confiscation hearing under the Proceeds of Crime Act to decide what will happen to £3,500 seized by police from Knox when he was arrested in April 2008.

Students find time to offer their services as volunteers

CARING youngsters have been stepping up to the mark and proving they can be a valuable asset to the local community by taking part in a national volunteering event.

Harlow College has been marking National Volunteer Week, which this year celebrates its 25th anniversary, by encouraging students to put the needs of others first.

College principal Colin Hindmarch said: "There is a misconception that young people, sometimes branded hoodies, aren't interested in their communities but this is not the case.

"Volunteering is good for students and good for the community. At Harlow College we continue to encourage students to positively engage with the community."

The college has been running a series of roadshows where students can find out about volunteering agencies and opportunities for them to get involved and make a difference.

Sports student Ronnie Plum (17) gives up some of his spare time to referee in a Sunday football league.

"I get great personal satisfaction from helping others," he said. "The league couldn't operate without volunteers and the boys and girls would be devastated.

"At the same time I would like to use this experience to gain a refereeing qualification."

Join the chain gang for week of bike events

BIKE owners are being encouraged dust off their saddles as National Bike Week pedals into Harlow next weekend.

Kicking off on Saturday with the fun-packed Big Bike Ride event in Market Square, the week will give cyclists the opportunity to explore the town's network of cycle paths and enjoy a host of bike-related games and activities.

Included in the programme of events are a mystery tour of the town setting off from Market Square at 7pm on June 15, a special pensioners-only ride (June 16) and a sculpture tour starting from the Museum of Harlow (June 21).

Those who work up a thirst while pedalling will be pleased to know there will be two evening rides that stop at local pubs (June 16 & 19), while busy workers can take advantage of a lunchtime tour of the town starting from the Civic Centre (June 18).

The week's events have been organised by Harlow Council in conjunction with the Cyclists Touring Club, activeharlow, Essex outdoors and Harlow Children and Young People's Strategic Partnership.

DIY play area big hit with the kids

IN the current climate of health and safety, the thought of children playing with hammers and nails would be frowned upon in no uncertain terms.

But back in 1960s Harlow, the town's youngsters were busy building their own adventure playground as part of a scheme run by a council of elected members and a man known to the Star on as 'Smudge'.

The Foldcroft adventure playground project started off as an experiment modeled on the play areas that sprung up on bomb sites around London.

But the people behind the Harlow project were unsure how well such an idea would go down in the New Town which already boasted numerous play areas and open spaces for the town's children. However, their doubts were soon laid to rest. After just two years hundreds of youngsters had already made their mark on the playground which was situated behind Little Parndon and Canons Brook.

They spent hours of their free time constructing dens out of old bedsteads, timber and mattresses in their quest to make it the ultimate children's paradise.

Small rooms where they could gather to play billiards and a giant climbing frame made entirely of wood were some of the features of the area which only had three rules for those who came to enjoy themselves – no bullying, no going into camps without the owner's permission and no damaging the trees.

One couple who remember the playground well are Stan and Shirley Neville, whose children played at the site.

"All the children used to enjoy it. Eventually the big wooden structure got knocked down and it turned into the Foldcroft centre," said Stan.

"When the children went there they were handed hammers and nails so they could build their own camps. Children would never be allowed to do that now."

Do you have any memories of the playground? Maybe you helped construct it as a youngster. Let us know by writing to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow CM20 1JW or by sending an email to sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk. We would love to hear your recollections.

Getting to the bottom of fish pond's history

THIS picture of Harlow Common arrives from reader Mag Barrett who asks if any Star readers can fill in the details.

"I remember the pond (created for fishermen) appearing at the time the M11 was completed and believe it may have been paid for by some sort of trade-off for land taken by the motorway," she writes.

"That is probably quite wrong and I would love to know the whole story behind its appearance."

"People would not recognise the spot today. A lush growth of trees and bushes have turned it into a beautiful oasis."

If you can help Mag with the history of the pond then please write in or send us an email.

Chase landed Jake in a hole lot of trouble

A DOG which became trapped when he tried to follow a rabbit into its hole miraculously survived for almost a month without food or water.

Jake, a Jack Russell, lost so much weight while stuck underground he was able to finally squeeze his way to freedom after 25 days of torment. He went missing while out on a walk near Haverfordwest in Pembrokeshire, Wales. He raced off in pursuit of a rabbit but didn't come back when his owners called him, leaving them worried their beloved pet was dead.

After nearly a month without food or water he lost almost a quarter of his bodyweight but that was what saved him as he was able to scramble out of the narrow warren. Children playing nearby recognised him from posters his owners had put up.

Grateful owner Jill Thomas said it was incredible he survived, adding that she and her husband were delighted to have the six-year-old dog home.

Vets had to look after Jake for a while because he was so weak and skinny following his ordeal, but he's much better now.

He's even become a bit of a local celebrity after his adventure and well-wishers have sent him cards, presents and even a nice juicy bone!

Cream

FASHION has been a lifelong passion for Sue Ross, proprietor of Cream in John Street, Royston, where she has been trading for 33 years and has built up an enviable reputation as the place to go for outfits for the mothers of the bride and groom.

No matter what you are looking for, from evening wear to a smart wedding outfit or casual chic, Sue and her staff are happy to help.

Good personal service is a key to Cream's success. Time is spent ensuring customers leave the shop with the outfit that is right for them.

The right time to buy an outfit is when everything gels and you have the 'wow factor'. This might be several months before an event and customers are booked in for a fitting four weeks beforehand.

A free alteration service on garments purchased ensures a perfect fit. Lingerie can also be purchased at the same time – it is just as important to have the right undergarments.

Hats, fascinators, shoes and bags are available to complete the perfect outfit.

Cream: open 9.30am-5pm, Monday to Saturday; www.creamfashions.com

Hundreds stopped after police mount m-way safety drive

HUNDREDS of motorists were stopped by police during a two-week operation to improve safety on the M11 motorway and crack down on crime.

The purge, led by Essex Police and Essex Casualty Reduction Board, saw nearly 2,000 drivers pulled over for a variety of offences including speeding.

The worst offender was clocked driving at a speed of 119mph.

Several others were stopped for drink-driving, not wearing a seatbelt, using a mobile phone, driving faulty vehicles or not having valid insurance or driving licences.

One man was arrested in connection with a quantity of cannabis found in a van while a man and teenager were detained on suspicion of burglary.

A total of 37 vehicles were seized and 566 fixed penalty notices were issued.

Checks on whether vehicles had valid road tax resulted in 134 drivers having action taken against them.

Sergeant Dan Barber, who led the operation, said: "The operation has been a huge success but the figures do demonstrate a worrying disregard of traffic legislation by some drivers.

"Laws are in place to safeguard all road users and we will continue to deal strongly with the minority who ignore them."

Following the success of the operation, Sergeant Barber added that it would will be repeated regularly on the roads of west Essex.

WIN A quad bike safari in the countryside

HOW do you fancy winning a trip on a safari with a difference? You won't need your passport but you will need a sense of adventure.

We have teamed up with Quad Safari to offer four readers a pair of vouchers for a safari – on quad bikes!

Established in 1991, Quad Safari runs sessions at a country estate near Cheshunt on selected weekends.

Each voucher entitles the holder to an introductory Quad Safari experience to try some of the messiest fun you can have in the English countryside – and our winners will get T-shirts to wear when they've cleaned up. As you gain experience you'll be able to shift up a gear and you'll soon be power-sliding round the turns like you were born on the bike.

Then you can take off on safari for a taste of what quad biking is about, venturing along woodland tracks, through water and up and down slopes, with your qualified instructors keeping a close eye on you all the way.

You will be spattered by mud during your two-hour session, but helmets, gloves and overalls are provided.

To be in with a chance of winning, answer the question and complete the coupon, left, and follow the entry instructions.

For more about Quad Safari, to buy a gift voucher or to organise a stag or hen do, log on to www.quadsafari.co.uk, call (01920) 822977 or email contact@quadsafari.co.uk.

Second blaze at wood yard

FIREFIGHTERS from Harlow and Old Harlow were among those sent to deal with a second blaze at a Nazeing wood pile.

At its height some 35 firefighters were on the scene in Hoe Lane. The fire engulfed about 100 tonnes of wood chip-pings.

Crews from Harlow, Old Harlow, Epping, Waltham Abbey and Hoddesdon attended after being called shortly before 1.30pm on Saturday. By 3.45pm they had managed to surround the blaze, preventing it from spreading further.

Assistant divisional officer

Greg Keys, who was in charge of the incident, said: "They worked extremely well in punishing conditions."

Steady progress was made throughout Saturday evening and the operation was scaled back. Crews remained at the scene on Sunday to dampen down the pile.

A spokesman for Essex County Fire and Rescue Service said: "The cause of the fire is unknown and a full investigation will be carried out."

Scores of firefighters were called to the same site back in January to tackle a blaze in the wood pile.

Fantastic four are awarded civic honours

By CHRIS MOSS

mossc@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FOUR pillars of the Harlow community have been honoured for their outstanding contributions to the town.

Outgoing council chairman Tony Hall presented civic awards to the quartet who have each gone above and beyond the call of duty to help others.

The first went to D-Day veteran Harry Joseph (93), who last year entered the Guinness Book Of Records after completing a 110ft abseil down the side of the Church Langley water tower to raise money for charity.

Not content to rest on his laurels, Mr Joseph returned to the scene of his triumph and completed the descent for the second time last month, raising £1,000 which he donated to St Clare Hospice and Essex Air Ambulance.

Nominating Mr Joseph for his award, councillor Linda Pailing told the meeting: "Harry is a remarkable man, a shining example to us all of the grit and determination which has taken him from the beaches of Normandy to the abseil down the water tower."

Next to be recognised for his charitable exploits was Brian Vernon (75), who has raised an incredible £50,000 for various charities over the past 20 years.

Earlier this year he was pictured in the Star sporting a bright red Mohican haircut for charity, while just two years ago he took part in a skydive and walked on hot coals to raise funds for Cancer Quest.

Mike Duckmanton, chairman of the Harlow Common Ward Advisory Group, received his award for his ongoing efforts to represent his local community and present its views to the council.

With an impressive list of achievements stretching from his attempts to re-establish ward groups across the town to his pivotal role in the formation of a Harlow Residents' Federation, Mr Duckmanton was described as a "pillar of the community" by Mr Hall in his nomination speech.

HARRY JOSEPH

BRIAN VERNON

MIKE DUCKMANTON

JUNE ROSE

The final award of the night went to June Rose and her late husband John, a decorated Royal Navy veteran, in recognition of their hard work and commitment to the Harlow Sea Cadets.

Praising the couple's dedication to the voluntary organisation, councillor Joshua Jolles said: "Both John and June, though justifiably proud of the unit, were always very modest about their own achievements."

Man convicted of theft wins appeal

A MAN jailed for stealing meat from a supermarket has won his appeal against the conviction.

Paul Archer (38), of Longfields, Harlow, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft at Harlow Court on November 18.

It was alleged he had stolen the meat from the Asda store in Harlow town centre on April 17, 2008.

Mr Archer was found guilty and sentenced to 42 days in prison, but that was suspended pending an appeal.

On Friday, crown prosecutor

Samuel Magee cast doubt on the validity of Mr Archer's conviction.

He told the judge the case was entirely dependant on CCTV evidence and said he had "concerns" about it.

As a result of those concerns he said he would be offering no evidence against Mr Archer.

The judge allowed the appeal and, when told by Mr Archer's barrister Victoria Yates that he had not been held in custody pending the hearing, said: "Thank God".

Permission to build Victorian-style villa in heart of old town

PLANNING permission has been granted to build an elegant Victorian-styled villa alongside a Grade II listed Georgian house in the heart of the Old Harlow conservation area.

This is a one-off opportunity to both build and own a magnificent house in one of the most important parts of the old town.

The planning consent allows for a substantial detached house over three floors providing some 2,800 sq.ft. of living accommodation. The classical design includes twin bays to the ground and first floors and a large lifestyle living room and open plan kitchen (if required) with a further two reception rooms.

The location is opposite the memorial green and close to the picturesque Marigolds cricket ground which has been the home of Harlow Cricket Club for well over 100 years.

The High Street shops are about 100 yards away while Harlow Mill rail station is under a mile away. There is also good access to the local motorway network with both the M11 and M25 in easy reach.

The county towns of Chelmsford and Hertford are within a 15-mile radius, but closer still are Bishop's Stortford, Epping, Ongar and the two forests of Hatfield and Epping.

Stunning show is proof that Harlow's got talent

REVIEW

MAKIN' STEPS 25TH ANNIVERSARY SHOW Harlow Sportcentre

FIRSTLY – and because I felt like shouting it from the middle of the car park once I got out of the Sportcentre – this truly was a stunning show bursting with energy and vibrancy.

It was a joy to watch and opened my eyes to the wealth of talent a fantastic organisation like Makin' Steps has to offer Harlow.

The tone was set from the outset with a medley of Michael Jackson numbers sung by the Steps Backing Vocalists and performed by the band. The troupe wowed the audience with their faultless routines which showed off their extensive skill base thanks to inspired choreography.

The staging – on two levels with the band and singers to the left – allowed the dancers to make full use of the ample space which in turn gave the audience better views of the troupe hitting each beat like a well-oiled machine. A simple gigantic '25' prop and some clever lighting gave the show the extra wow factor and created a feeling more in keeping with a professional performance.

The gusto of the dancing, helped by some fantastic singing at times from the likes of David Rudin, Rachel Alcock, Mark Cameron and Amber Libera (to mention just a few), as well as the performance band, gave the show power and energy which hit the audience like a sledgehammer.

Throughout the show all ages of dancers were given the opportunity to strut their stuff.

Stand-out performances were Bombay for its change of pace coming amid some high-octane pop performances and its professional-looking costume as well as well-balanced choreography.

The lighting at the beginning of the performance projected the silhouettes of the dancers onto the black sides of the Sportcentre walls, making the performance a real assault on the senses.

Musical auditions are just Pan-tastic!

FORMER Playhouse manager Phil Dale is hoping to get the audience hooked on his new theatre group's debut at his old stomping ground when he produces and directs a magical adaptation of Peter Pan in September.

More than 100 young hopefuls turned up at auditions for Phoenix Theatre School's first full-scale song and dance spectacular.

That number was eventually whittled down to a final group of 35, who will be joined on stage by 10 adults to complete the cast.

Peter Pan will be played by 17-year-old Abigail Simpson from Sawbridgeworth, while Amy Moulder – who took the lead in The Playhouse Theatre Company's smash hit production of Oliver – fills the role of Wendy.

Peter's evil nemesis, the sinister Captain Hook, will be played by Playhouse veteran Lee Pace, best known for his appearances as a pantomime comic and as the Tin Man in the PTC production of The Wizard Of Oz.

Mr Dale said he hoped the production would recapture the community spirit of some of his earlier shows as PTC boss.

"I know a lot of people were disappointed when the Playhouse Theatre School ceased to exist," he said. "The autumn musicals had become an important event in the calendar and shows like Oliver and Bugsy Malone were great examples of community theatre at its very best.

"Peter Pan is a great title and a show that the whole family can enjoy. Anyone who used to enjoy the shows I produced while at The Playhouse will not be disappointed."

The final Stevie Wonder medley was also fantastic to watch, as was Dance Wiv Me and Back in the Day.

The younger members showed they were every inch stars for the future, never once forgetting a step and showing they have exceptional timing while the older members showed they are fantastically talented with some of them standing out as real pros. Well done to all involved.

REVIEW

THE KING BLUES

The Square, Harlow

HARLOW'S premier music venue proved once again it can cut it with the best when it played host to The King Blues on Friday.

The skanking acoustic-punk band grabbed the audience's attention from the very first verse, with fans young and old alike clambering to the front eager to soak up the atmosphere.

The crowd really got going when the London-based trio blasted out the song Let's Hang The Landlord with everyone all the way to the back dancing their socks off.

But it was current single I Got Love, with its heartfelt lyrics and feel-good vibes, that really made my night - a modern love song with all the makings of an instant classic.

It's hard to believe the group which started out just four years ago could go from being threatened with ASBOs for outdoor gigs to amassing a dedicated fanbase of all creeds and colours eagerly drinking in every word.

The King Blues have shown themselves to be up there with the very best and are certainly ones to watch as they go from strength to strength.

TERMINATOR SALVATION
certificate 12A 1h 54m

MAN battles the machines once again in an all-guns-blazing reboot of the Terminator series which sows the seeds of a new trilogy charting John Connor's rise to leader of the Resistance in the aftermath of Judgment Day.

The fourth film is a very bleak affair, a colour-bleached war opus that pits the last vestiges of humanity against a fully-aware Skynet and its robotic foot soldiers.

Director McG and his crew conjure an arresting and desolate vision of the near future. However, the script is as lifeless, clunky and mechanical as some of the killing machines, constructed by bolting together cliches and trite aphorisms that attempt to pass muster as dialogue.

In post-apocalyptic 2018, John Connor (Christian Bale) leads the dwindling human race against Skynet and its relentless army of Terminators, flanked by his doctor wife Kate (Bryce Dallas Howard), second-in-command Barnes and feisty lieutenant Blair.

Like the machines, Connor searches in vain for Kyle Reese (Anton Yelchin), the man who is destined to be sent back in time to protect his mother.

On the decimated US West Coast, death-row prisoner Marcus Wright (Sam Worthington) crosses paths with Kyle and nine-year-old mute war star (Jadagrace Berry) during an attack by a T-600. They escape and gravitate towards John and his compatriots while Resistance leader General Ashdown (Michael Ironside) plots a daring attack which could cripple Skynet forever.

Terminator Salvation plugs a few of the narrative holes from the first three films and explores the first wave of Skynet machines, while Arnold Schwarzenegger's computer-generated likeness makes a cameo as one of the first T-800s to roll off the assembly line.

Bale looks ill at ease amid the pyrotechnics. He delivers the lines with his usual bombast but we feel no bond with his character.

Worthington at least gets beneath the synthetic skin of his pivotal player, a hybrid with a human brain and heart powering a metal exoskeleton exploring the inner conflict of an abomination torn between corporeal past and cybernetic future.

"The battle has been won but the war rages on," growls John at the end of the film, echoing the final words of Terminator 3: Rise Of The Machines. On this lacklustre evidence, he won't be back.

Curse is hell for bank worker

DRAG ME TO HELL
certificate 15 1h 38m

DIRECTOR Sam Raimi, whose name is synonymous with the Evil Dead series, returns to the horror genre after box office success with Spider-Man and its high-flying sequels.

Christine Brown (Alison Lohman) works in Los Angeles as a loans officer and is keen to impress her boss Mr Jacks (David Paymer) and perhaps gain promotion as well as a hefty pay rise.

So when the enigmatic Mrs Ganush (Lorna Raver) comes into the bank to beg for an extension to her home loan, Christine is torn between giving the old lady more time, and denying her request.

Christine opts for ruthless ambition but pays the penalty when Mrs Ganush retaliates by placing a curse on the young woman and all around her, including her handsome professor boyfriend, Clay Dalton (Justin Long).

As an evil spirit slowly drives Christine to the brink of insanity, she seeks spiritual guidance from seer Rham Jas (Dileep Rao). But just how far is she willing to go in order to reclaim her old life?

C for convertible, C for cute

NEW-born kittens, baby seals, a panda licking a big lollipop, little kids dressed as teddy bears with big fluffy ears and bow ties. At this point, some readers will be feeling their stomachs turn while others will have gone all gooey just from the thought of all that cuteness bundled up. The camp you fall into will have a lot to do with whether or not you like Fiat's 500 C. This car is cute made metal.

Even the Tichy manufacturing plant in Poland where Fiat builds this convertible version of its 500 city car has a cute name.

The driving experience will be a virtual irrelevance to lots of Fiat 500 C buyers. They'll have already fallen in love with the car in a brochure, on a TV ad or upon seeing one in the street. Nevertheless, it promises to be fairly adept on the road, with the same basic set-up as the hard-topped 500. The engine range opens with a 69bhp 1.2-litre petrol, but those seeking more thrust will step up to the 1.4, which has 100bhp. The 1.3 MultiJet engine is one of the leading small diesels on the market and packs more muscle than its 75bhp might suggest.

A choice of transmissions is available, with a five-speed manual gearbox as standard with the option of upgrading to the Dualogic robotised gearbox.

It's hard not to appreciate the lovable looks of the standard 500 C. Borrowing its retro design themes straight from the 1950s original, it has the rare capacity to bring a smile to your face. The convertible version cranks up the cute factor a couple of notches, and it also has its roots in Fiat's past as we're told it pays homage to the original 500 cabriolet of 1957. It's better to think of the roof arrangement as a huge canvas sunroof rather than a full folding canopy. At the touch of a button, the entire centre section of the roof retracts into a concertinaed bundle just above the boot. The roof itself features a glass rear window and is available in a choice of colours.

There's a decent amount of room in the back. Some convertible cars twice the size of the little Fiat are stingier with the legroom for passengers in the back.

Delicious design details drip from the interior. It's like a tiny pearl, especially when the ivory finish is specified. There's a very well-judged blend of retro chic and modern contemporary design, with circular head restraints and neat 500 C badging on the Panda-sourced dashboard. Chrome-ringed vents and a fascia that can be specified in the same colour as the body are other highlights.

The specification looks generous on Fiat's part. The entry-level Pop models get the electrically-operated roof, air-con, remote central locking, a CD stereo with MP3 compatibility, electric door mirrors and seven airbags. That's a lot of kit for a sub-£12,000 convertible.

The alternative trim level is the Lounge and these models add ESP stability control, front foglights, Bluetooth connectivity, climate control and rear parking sensors. The Lounge comes at a premium of £1,400. From launch, there's a choice of 11 exterior colours and Fiat offers buyers a huge scope of optional extras to personalise their 500 C.

Predictably, the engines powering the diminutive 500 C turn in strong fuel economy and emissions figures. The diesel in particular will be a good choice for those looking to keep running costs under control. The Multijet diesel version will average over 65mpg, with the 1.2-litre petrol unit not far behind on around 50mpg.

Fiat has taken further steps to boost the car's environmental credentials with its Start&Stop technology and a clever system called eco:Drive. Bundled up with the Blue&Me Bluetooth telephone system on the Lounge models, eco:Drive is a computer that monitors your driving style and offers tips on how you can improve your fuel economy.

Fiat could have sold its 500 city car in large quantities on its cute retro looks alone and the cabriolet model is cuter still. It bodes well for a car that has unashamedly set out to become as much a trendy fashion accessory as a means of getting from A to B, but that's not the best part. Even beneath the curves and the chrome, Fiat looks to have a cracking little convertible on its hands.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Puppies look to romp home

Welcome to Inside Track, the column which gives provides an insider's view on the action at Harlow Greyhound Stadium. Our top tipster reveals his favourites for tomorrow night's (Fri June 5) races.

TWO of Harlow's most promising youngsters go head to head in a fascinating clash at 9.30pm. Droopys Elbow and NO JOKE GOOFY are the puppies in question and both will be competing in top class races in a few months time.

NO JOKE GOOFY has slightly more experience than his rival and is preferred in what should be a very informative race. A top-grade stayers event awaits punters at 10.15pm, when DAPH'S GIRL holds decent claims of becoming Harlow's best graded stayer. She is capable of fast starts, as well as a strong finish, and should be very hard to beat if she avoids serious trouble. Bell Tempest is no mug and would be the one to take advantage if the selection fluffs her lines.

Friday June 5 selections:

7.30 Koala Barns; 7.45 Vital Time; 8.00 Black Terry; 8.15 Leas Lady; 8.30 Son Of Iris; 8.45 Numbers Man; 9.00 Genesis Fuzzums; 9.15 Ronnies Flyer; 9.30 No Joke Goofy; 9.45 Westland Rumble; 10.00 Rank N File; 10.15 Daphs Girl; 10.30 Pinewood Ted.

Gladwin hits first half-century of season in victory

High Roding II 129, Harlow Town 131-1
Harlow Town won by nine wickets
Herts and Essex Cricket League, division two

SHORT work was made of High Roding seconds by Harlow Town, who registered a thumping home win. Responding to the visitors' modest 129, Jason Gladwin hit his first half century of the season, making 70 not out. Shiraz Ali made 17 not out and Pat Yates (27) was the only home batsman to be dismissed on Saturday. Earlier, stand-in captain Dan Calver stood up to the plate with the new ball. He claimed two early wickets and Ashley Alderson took another as the visitors slipped to 24-3. Simon Rowell also bowled his left arm spinners, tidily taking 3-19 from 10 overs and the unbeaten Harlow side were not threatened. In division four, Harlow Town II (279-5; Karl Secharan 87, Alfie Elston 55, Scott Alderson 67) beat Thaxted (192; Olie Souter 4-10) by 87 runs. Harlow Town III (121-5) made it five wins from five matches in division seven, when they won by five wickets at High Roding III (118). In division three, Potter Street (141-9) lost to Nazeing Common (142-9) by one wicket.

Not just pot luck for Harry

A TALENTED 12-year-old snooker player from Harlow showed his ability when he won an open competition at Chelmsford Snooker Club. Harry Green - who has been playing snooker for only two years - beat 40-year-old Jason Rosser 68-41, 67-59 in the final of the Chelmsford Handicap Competition. Harry had a 15-point head start in each frame and was the youngest player by four years in the competition. The youngster, who lives in Abbeydale Close and attends Mark Hall School, dropped only one frame in four knockout rounds before the final. Mum Debbie said: "Around homework, he practices at weekends at Chelmsford and twice during the week, at Rileys, in Harlow. He is very keen." Michael Blower, manager at Chelmsford Snooker Club, said: "Harry's potting and positional play are good, as is his concentration. When he grows, that will also help his reach."

Bowen in hot form for Rockets

Speedway

LUKE Bowen played a crucial role for Rye House Rockets when they beat Sheffield 52-38 at the weekend.

The speedway rider from Harlow scored 14 points from seven races.

He and Andrew Silver replied with a maximum after Sheffield opened with a 5-1.

Later on, Rockets were leading narrowly (28-26) when Bowen extended that advantage with a marvellous pass of the previously-unbeaten Ricky Ashworth (Sheffield Tigers) in heat 11.

This was the first of four consecutive outings for the Harlow rider.

His second and last were as part of critical 5-1s alongside skipper Chris Neath that pulled Rockets clear when it mattered most.

Town step down for new season

By DAVID RIMMER

BARRING any club above them pulling out of the non-league football structure, Harlow Town will play in Ryman League, division one north next season.

The Hawks learned from the FA on Friday that they will drop to step four of the football pyramid - although there is still a very slim outside chance they will remain in step three.

However, Hawks manager Glen Alzapiedi is preparing as if the club will be in step four - but has yet to agree a budget with Hawks chairman Simon Morgan.

Said Alzapiedi: "I have not spoken to players about budgets and they are not going to commit themselves until they know about expenses."

"I will be looking to have 18 outfield players and two keepers."

Alzapiedi sees his side as challenging for promotion alongside Heybridge Swifts, East Thurrock, Concord Rangers and Brentwood Town.

The teams lining up in Ryman League div one north for 2009/10 are: Brentwood Town, Cheshunt, Concord Rangers, East Thurrock, Enfield Town, Great Wakering Rovers, Harlow Town, Heybridge Swifts, Ilford, Leyton, Lowestoft Town, Maldon Town, Northwood, Potters Bar Town, Redbridge, Romford, Thamesmead Town, Tilbury, VCD Athletic, Waltham Forest, Ware and Wingate and Finchley.

Star bowler off to Lords?

INFLUENCED by the lure of playing for Aussie legend Shane Warne, Harlow's overseas player, Abhishek Jhunjhunwala, is set to play for Rajasthan Royals in the IPL next year and may turn out against Middlesex at Lord's next month.

Indian Jhunjhunwala is better known for his batting, but it was with his spinners he proved useful for Harlow when they hosted Leigh-on-Sea on Saturday.

Leigh batted first and their openers put on 53 before Catchpole was caught by Zafir Nazir off Jhunjhunwala for 32. Richard Stubbington was then caught behind by Nino Calvino off Zafir Nazir for 4, before Dyoys was dismissed for 39 by Jhunjhunwala, who went on to take 3-59 from 18 overs. Luke Heskett took 2-68, while Nick

Butler saw two catches dropped. In reply, Harlow lost both openers quickly, but Jhunjhunwala fell for a cameo 27 to leave the hosts on 60-3. However, good cricket saw Nick Butler add 107 for the fifth wicket with Jason McNally (70), which together with an unbroken seventh-wicket stand of 49 between Darren Green (34 not out) and James Butler (29 not out), guided Harlow to victory. Skipper James Butler said: "Jason (McNally) looked great making 70, but he and Nick (Butler) should be finishing games, while Darren Green is proving a real find."

YOU could not have scripted a closer finish, as Harlow tied with hosts Harlow Town in the annual Proudlock Cup match.

Both sides finished with 199 on Sunday and the match was agreed to be a tie, although Harlow had lost one fewer wicket. Harlow retained the trophy.

Harlow Town skipper Dan Calver won the toss and his decision to field was rewarded as he and Ashley Alderson caused problems with the new ball, reducing Harlow to 23-3.

However, the damage was repaired by Ryan Jessey.

He received support from Nino Clavino (29) and Lee Jessey (31) in stands of 47 and 56 for the fourth and fifth wickets.

Ryan Jessey went on to make 67, before a late flourish was provided by Darren Green (23) and Luke Heskett (39).

Simon Rowell took 3-47, while more economy came from Calver (2-31) and Alderson (2-12).

Needing five an over, Town had a shaky start, as Jason

McNally removed openers Patrick Yates (3) and Jason Gladin (9) cheaply.

Karl Seecharan chipped in with 17 before he was caught by Lee Jessey of Ryan Jessey to leave the hosts on 65-3.

Alderson joined Shiraz Ali and the pair batted beautifully adding 102 for the fourth wicket before Alderson was stumped by James Butler of Jack Davies for 56.

Calver said: "If Shiraz and Ashley had continued together for another two overs we would have won. It was good to give them a good game, which we have not done for a few years."

Ali went on to make 58 and runs were scored and wickets fell to make for a tantalising finish.

Four was needed off the final ball which went over keeper James Butler's head and three runs were scored.

Davies took 3-20, while McNally claimed 2-15.
